AH&T's ANNUAL CHARITY EVENT RAISES $25,000 FOR LOUDOUN COMMUNITY FREE CLINIC

Leesburg, VA, –December 11, 2006 – This year's AH&T Annual Charity Golf Tournament was a huge success, exceeding expectations for participation and donations. The event took place October 3, 2006 at the Piedmont Club in Haymarket, VA and raised $25,000 for Loudoun Community Free Clinic. The Tournament attracted over a hundred golfers and sponsors from Loudoun County residents and businesses and from the insurance industry.

Lyle Werner, Executive Director of the Loudoun Community Free Clinic, accepted the large donation at the Tournament's Awards Banquet. The Loudoun Community Free Clinic (LCFC) is a private, not-for-profit organization that was established to help the medically under-served in Loudoun County and has been in continuous operation since last opening on January 10, 2002. For the fiscal year ending 2006, the LCFC had three specialty clinics weekly and saw in excess of 3,500 patient visits. There is a paid staff of four and volunteers donated over 3,600 hours of their time. For every $1 the clinic spends, it delivers $5 in health care. For the year ending 6/30/06, LCFC delivered $4.85 million in health care services to the residents of Loudoun County.

The Tournament was coordinated by AH&T's Dorothy Kidwell with volunteers from AH&T's staff. AH&T has served the Loudoun community since 1921 and is pleased that they can help to make a difference right here in Loudoun County with their contribution.
